9. From Ellis Island to Orchard Street with Victoria Confino
10. Oral Histories for Your Classroom

Each expert pack contains a variety of selections grouped to create a coherent and gradual learning process for students as possible, generally beginning with lower levels as measured by quantitative and qualitative measures, and moving to more complex levels in the latter selections. This gradated approach helps support students’ ability to read the next selection and to become ‘experts’ on the topic they are reading about.
Refer to annotated bibliography on the following pages for the suggested sequence of readings.
Rationale and suggested sequence for reading:

To begin, students read the article “Jessica is an Immigrant,” a personal narrative that is accessible for students, contemporary and relatable. The article is followed by the book How Many Days to America? a Thanksgiving Story that takes students back in time and introduces challenges of immigrants long ago. This is a great story for encouraging curiosity and generating wonderings for comparison to contemporary experiences that are included in other narratives. The next article, “Relive a Boy’s Journey to America,” explores immigration in greater depth with a personal narrative, followed by a short Youtube video, “Forgotten Ellis Island, The Trailer 1”, describing the experiences of immigrants who were ill when they arrived and had to stay at the hospital. The next resource from Scholastic online provides immigration data along with questions for students. The video “The Great American Melting Pot,” (Schoolhouse Rock) engages students’ interest through cartoon and song, and introduces them to the idea of the U.S. as a population of people from all over the world as well as the concept of a “melting pot.” The following resource is an article from Readworks that provides information about the history of immigration into the U.S. and introduces Ellis Island as a main entry point. This is followed by a short video, “Coming to America: New York’s Immigrants” that reinforces the vocabulary and ideas from the previous article. Students then listen to personal accounts and anecdotes of immigrants adjusting to life in America. Next, students visit Tenement.org to experience life as an immigrant by selecting from provided options to create their own immigrant story. Finally, students read the short chapter book My Name is Maria Isabel about an immigrant girl who had to change her name and her experiences in an American classroom.

The Common Core Shifts for ELA/Literacy:

1. Regular practice with complex text and its academic language
2. Reading, writing and speaking grounded in evidence from text, both literary and informational
3. Building knowledge through content-rich nonfiction

Though use of these expert packs will enhance student proficiency with most or all of the Common Core Standards, they focus primarily on Shift 3, and the highlighted portions of the standards below.

College and Career Readiness Anchor Standards for Reading Literary and/or Informational Texts (the darkened sections of the standards are the focus of the Expert Pack learning for students):

1. Read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.
2. Determine central ideas or themes of a text and analyze their development; summarize the key supporting details and ideas.
3. Read and comprehend complex literary and informational texts independently and proficiently

Supports for Struggling Students

By design, the gradation of complexity within each Expert Pack is a technique that provides struggling readers the opportunity to read more complex texts. Listed below are other measures of support that can be used when necessary.

- Provide a brief student-friendly glossary of some of the academic vocabulary (tier 2) and domain vocabulary (tier 3) essential to understanding the text
- Download the Wordsmyth widget to classroom computers/tablets for students to access student-friendly definitions for unknown words. http://www.wordsmyth.net/?mode=widget
- Provide brief student friendly explanations of necessary background knowledge
- Include pictures or videos related to the topic within and in addition to the set of resources in the pack
- Select a small number of texts to read aloud with some discussion about vocabulary work and background knowledge
- Provide audio recordings of the texts being read by a strong reader (teacher, parent, etc.)
- Chunk the text and provide brief questions for each chunk of text to be answered before students go on to the next chunk of text
- Pre-reading activities that focus on the structure and graphic elements of the text
- Provide volunteer helpers from the school community during independent reading time.

Why Text Sets Support English Language Learners

Those acquiring English as a second language have to learn many words in English to catch up with their English-only peers. Vocabulary builds at a much quicker pace when reading a set of connected texts. Text sets are an adaptable resource perfect for building knowledge and vocabulary. Student use of text sets can vary in terms of independence or teacher supports based on the individual needs of the students in the room. Activities found within the text set resources reflect several best practices for English Language Learner instruction including:

- Providing brief, engaging texts that provide a high volume of reading on a topic.
- Providing web-based resources and/or videos that are tied to the content of the texts students are reading.
- Providing opportunities for students to learn new vocabulary through the use of student-friendly definitions in resource-specific glossaries.
- Allowing for options to reinforce newly learned vocabulary and/or content through graphic organizers.
- Providing opportunities for students to reinforce new vocabulary through multi-modal activities including written work, group discussion, viewing visual content, and reading texts that feature the vocabulary.

Teachers of ELLs may use the protocols on the following pages to provide additional support to students who are struggling to access the content within text sets because they are new to English.
ELL Text Set Protocol Grades 3-12

The goal of text sets is to help students build knowledge through a volume of independent reading, and it is important that educators provide scaffolds to allow English Language Learners to be successful in engaging meaningfully with the texts, even as students are still developing English language skills. The protocol below can be used for teaching with text set resources as a full class. Students can also be trained on the protocol so that they can utilize text sets in small groups or partnerships as a resource for independent or reciprocal reading and study.

Please note that this protocol includes options for teachers. Individual decisions should be made considering the needs of the students and the demands of the content, keeping in mind that the goal of each scaffold is to allow students to meaningfully access the text and move toward independent, knowledge-building reading.

Step one: Build knowledge and vocabulary.

Introduce students to the overall topic/content of the text set, including knowledge demands needed to engage in the content, and domain-specific vocabulary necessary for comprehension. This should be done prior to engaging with the texts themselves; time allotted to this activity should reflect student needs (anywhere from 5 minutes prior to reading, to a full day’s lesson is appropriate).

Options for this step include:

- Engage students in reading and discussing auxiliary texts (of lesser complexity) and resources (illustrations, photographs, video clips) on the topic of the text set.
- Pre-teach a few key content-specific terms prior to students engaging with a text set. (Ideas for text-focused vocabulary instruction can be found here.)
- Provide the student-friendly glossary included in the text set prior to reading each text.
- When possible, allow students to read texts in their home language about the topic under study.

Step two: Read text orally.

Focusing on one resource at a time, allow students to listen to a fluent read of the resource, while following along with their own copy of the text.

Options for this step include:

- Have a fluent reader model the first read of a text or resource.
- Have students engage in a buddy/partner read.
- Use recordings of the text to provide additional opportunities to hear expert reading.

Step three: Engage in group discussion about the content.

Allow students time in partnerships or small groups to discuss the content of the resource.

Options for this step include:

- Allow for discussion/conversation (in the students’ home language if possible) with a small group of students reading the same text set prior to writing or provide heterogeneous language groupings to talk about content and discuss what students are learning.
- Have students refer to the student-friendly glossary included with each text set to identify meanings for new vocabulary necessary for comprehension.

Step four: Write about what was read.

Options for this step include:

- Use the “Rolling Knowledge Journal” and/or “Rolling Vocabulary Journal” as a shared writing routine/graphic organizer to help to scaffold the writing process and capture student knowledge over time.
• Provide students with several supports to help students engage in writing/drawing about what they read:
  o Use mentor texts about which students can pattern their writing.
  o Allow them to write collaboratively.
  o Show students visual resources as prompts, etc.
  o Provide language supports such as strategically chosen sentence starters.

Repeat steps one through four with each resource in the text set as appropriate.

“Immigration”

1. Quantitative Measure
   Go to http://www.lexile.com/ and enter the title of the text in the Quick Book Search in the upper right of home page. Most texts will have a Lexile measure in this database. You can also copy and paste a selection of text using the Lexile analyzer.

3. Reader and Task Considerations
   What will challenge students most in this text? What supports can be provided?
   - Reading and discussion could support students with vocabulary demands.
   - Many of the words can be supported with discussion of the content and the use of the student friendly definitions in the glossary.
   - Students’ knowledge of world geography may need support through maps and other visual aids.
1. Rolling Knowledge Journal

- Read each selection in the set, one at a time.
- After you read each resource, stop and think what the big learning was. What did you learn that was new and important about the topic from this resource? Write, draw, or list what you learned from the text about (topic).
- Then write, draw, or list how this new resource added to what you learned from the last resource(s).

5. “Explore Immigration Data”

Immigration to America went up for many years, but dropped off at the beginning of the 1900s. It started going up again in 1930 and hasn’t gone down since then. Legal immigrants who came to America greatly increased from 1820 to 1900, then dropped just as much over the next 30 years. The number has been going up ever since 1930. Most of the immigrants over the years have been from Europe, but that is changing now to North and South America.

6. Schoolhouse Rock

People have come to America from all over the world. They bring their cultures and customs with them and blend in with others to help build America. America became known as the great melting pot because people came from all over the world.

7. “Immigration”

There have been four main waves of immigration to America throughout history. Immigrants come to America for many reasons, including danger in their home countries like war, or they couldn’t find enough food or work. There have been four main waves of immigrants and they have come in groups from all over the world.

8. Coming to America: New York’s Immigrants

This video gives more details about the famine in Ireland, the Chinese Exclusion Act, and the population increase of the Italians in New York. Immigrants were often discriminated against by Americans. Some had their churches burned and others, like the Chinese, were no longer allowed to enter the country.

9. “Oral Histories for Your Classroom”

People who traveled to America by boat had a difficult time. They had to leave most of their things behind, and they had to sail in the lowest part of the boat where it was crowded and dirty and smelled bad. Sometimes there were dangerous storms and people were very sick on the trip. Immigrants who come to America are looking for a new and better life, but getting here can be harder than they think. The journey can be hard and they can get sick before they ever get here.
10. My Name Is Maria Isabel

A Latino girl has to change her name at a new school, because there are two other girls with the same name and she’s sad. She writes a paper about wanting to be called her real name, so her teacher decides to call her Maria instead of Mary.

When immigrants try to blend in to life in America, a lot of things change for them. They have to learn new customs and make new friends, and sometimes they might even have to change their names. All these changes can make them feel bad, even though their new life is supposed to be better.

2. Rolling Vocabulary: “Sensational Six”

- Read each resource then determine the 6 words from each text that most exemplify the central idea of the text.
- Next use your 6 words to write about the most important idea of the text. You should have as many sentences as you do words.
- Continue this activity with EACH selection in the Expert Pack.
- After reading all the selections in the Expert Pack, go back and review your words.
- Now select the “Sensational Six” words from ALL the word lists.
- Use the “Sensational Six” words to summarize the most important learning from this Expert Pack.

Sensational Six

emigrated, anxious, immigrant, Ellis Island, persecuted, centuries

Summary:
Many people emigrated from their homes to America for a better life than they had in their own countries. The journey was often scary and dangerous and the newcomers felt anxious and afraid. A person who comes to live in America from another country is called an immigrant. Many immigrants came to America through Ellis Island in New York. Most were looking for a better life but were often persecuted for coming from a different country and taking American jobs. Immigrants have been coming to America for centuries and still continue to come today.

Learning Worth Remembering

Singular Activities – the following activities can be assigned for each resource in the set. The purpose of these activities is to check for understanding, capture knowledge gained, and provide variety of ways for students to interact with each individual resource. Students may complete some or none of the suggested singular activities for each text. Singular activities should be assigned at the discretion of the teacher.

1. A Picture of Knowledge (Recommended for "Jessica is an Immigrant, "Coming to America: New York’s Immigrants, and “Oral Histories for Your Classroom”)
   - Take a piece of paper and fold it two times: once across and once top to bottom so that it is divided into 4 quadrants.
- Draw these shapes in the corner of each quadrant.

1. Square
2. Triangle
3. Circle
4. Question Mark

- Write!

Square: What one thing did you read that was interesting to you?
Triangle: What one thing did you read that taught you something new?
Circle: What did you read that made you want to learn more?
Question Mark: What is still confusing to you? What do you still wonder about?

- Find at least one classmate who has read [selection] and talk to each other about what you put in each quadrant.

2. Quiz Maker (Recommended for “Relive a Boy’s Journey to America”)

- Make a list of # questions that would make sure another student understood the information.
- Your classmates should be able to find the answer to the question from the resource.
- Include answers for each question.
- Include the where you can find the answer in the resource.
