Welcome

Goals for Text-Based Instruction

- Students experience robust knowledge, vocabulary and syntax through content-rich text.
- Students lived experiences and identities are affirmed, and they learn about the world and lives of others, through texts as mirrors, windows, and sliding glass doors (Rudine Sims Bishop)
- Lessons focus on nurturing and leveraging students' academic success, cultural competence, and critical consciousness (Gloria Ladson-Billings)

Conversation with Quintin and Yvette

- 1) When was the first time that you saw yourself authentically represented in a book?
- 2) Why is this topic important to you and your work?
- 3) How can educators promote equity and develop critical consciousness through read-alouds in early grade classrooms?

Q&A with Quintin and Yvette

Final Question:

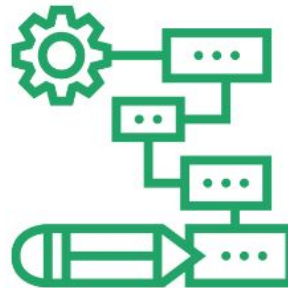

If you had one piece of advice - one “unforgettable” thing - that parents, teachers, educators could keep in mind about selecting and using books, what would it be?
